PROJECT: TOURLOS HOUSE

LOCATION: MIKONOS . GREECE

LAND SURFACE: 4.000 m2

BUILT SURFACE: 221 m2

YEAR: 2015 (under construction)

The project of this house was commissioned by a Greek company that performs real estate development on the island of Mykonos. The land of gentle slopes, full of rocks and autochthonous vegetation enjoys panoramic views over the Aegean Sea.

Accessed by the top of the plot through a road that leads into a courtyard where the entrance facade, strong, thick stone walls, stands and coming from the grounds. The facade facing the sea is developed in a sequence of cube rustic texture that reminds us to the traditional architecture of the island.

The house is solved on three levels, adapts to the land. The different heights create diversity and harmony in the different spaces. From the hall, to one side and in medium levels the bedrooms area on the ground floor, and the master suite upstairs. Towards the other, the common areas, with the kitchen, the dining room and the living room are developed. With different atmospheres, this sector of the house is space and visually linked inside and also with the outside area. A large porch with a seating area, a dining area with barbecue, gives support to a fantastic infinity pool that is prolonged towards the sea and the horizon.
